The treatment of cervical fracture-dislocation is still a controversial issue. The anterolateral approach offers the possibility of rigid posterior stabilization of the spine and restoration of cervical lordosis. The aim of this study is to present an original method of treatment for cervical fracture-dislocation in children with halo vest fixation at the side of the fractured vertebra and anterolateral fixation of the spine with Magerl-technique. Between January 2005 and December 2011, 6 children with cervical fracture-dislocation were treated at our department. All patients were aged 7-13 years (mean 11.5 years) with fracture-dislocation at C5-C6 level. The mechanism of injury was accidental fall on the side of the fractured vertebra. All patients were examined at the time of admission and after operation. Anterolateral instrumentation was used to stabilize the cervical spine. The Magerl-technique was used. After operation, the patients were treated in a halo vest for a mean of 6.5 weeks (range 5-8 weeks). All children were clinically and radiologically examined at the time of removal of the halo vest and after a mean of 22 months (range 10-31 months). There were no neurologic or biomechanical complications. Halo vest immobilization combined with anterolateral instrumentation and Magerl-technique is a safe and effective method of treatment for cervical fracture-dislocation in children. * * 2 - 2 * z * * 2 + 2 - 2) * (3 - 2 + 0) + 3 * z * * 2 + 2 * z * * 2 - 3 * z * * 2 . 1 2 * z * * 2 E
