This is post-patch and working officially. I used a non-modified save game, no cheating made. @Autopilot1 - Yes, I'm using a modified save game created prior to this patch. This clearly means that something changed with the patch, so that it no longer works with this save game. @Mathuz cheaty-dlm.pdf (A "cheaty-dlm" is one of the files that can be used for the cheaty-dlm.zip archive on the game's main site). The name is reflective of the "cheaty-dlm.zip" archive on the game's main site. This archive can be used with a working save game from the time when cheaty-dlm.zip was uploaded to World of Warcraft. Also, the cheaty-dlm.zip archive is no longer available. It was replaced by hack-unsupported.zip (which is what I linked to above). Hack unsupported has no support. It was intended to be used for hack stuff and that's all, but it could have possible detrimental effects. I had "helpful" people telling me that my "hack unsupported" was causing problems, so I've removed that archive. The cheaty-dlm.zip archive didn't work for me with my save game anyway. The hack unsupported archive did work for me with my save game. So, I guess I'm not sure. There is a cheaty-dlm in the game, that I can use, but I'm not sure what to do. Dunno, my guess is that the hack unsupported archive was made for vanilla World of Warcraft without any modification. The hack unsupported archive has an option to save

Quantification of granulocyte-macrophage colony stimulating factor and granulocyte colony stimulating factor in the serum and peritoneal lavage fluid of women with normal pregnancy and ectopic pregnancy. The aims of this study were to quantify the amount of granulocyte-macrophage colony stimulating factor (GM-CSF) and granulocyte colony stimulating factor (G-CSF) in the serum and peritoneal lavage fluid of women with normal pregnancy and ectopic pregnancy and to evaluate the level of these cytokines in connection to the course of pregnancy. Twenty-five women were included into the study, 15 women with normal pregnancy and 10 women with ectopic pregnancy. Serum samples were obtained from each subject at the time of the 1st visit of the gynecology outpatient clinic (Visit 1), at the time of the beginning of menses (Visit 2), and at the time of the appearance of the signs of the beginning of the 1st clinical symptoms of an ectopic pregnancy (Visit 3). Lavage samples of all subjects were obtained at the time of the 1st visit of the gynecology outpatient clinic (Visit 1), and at the time of delivery of the fetus in normal pregnancy or at the time of surgery in ectopic pregnancy. Peritoneal washings were diluted twofold in PBS, and then samples were collected from the upper and lower washings. The GM-CSF level in the serum was significantly increased in ectopic pregnancy compared with normal pregnancy. The value of the G-CSF level in the serum was significantly decreased in ectopic pregnancy compared with normal pregnancy. The GM-CSF level in the peritoneal lavage samples was significantly increased in ectopic pregnancy compared with normal pregnancy, while the G-CSF level in the peritoneal lavage samples was significantly increased in ectopic pregnancy compared with normal pregnancy. The GM-CSF level in the upper peritoneal lavage samples was significantly increased in ectopic pregnancy compared with normal pregnancy, while the
