Intended for Windows 7/8.1 users. File bugs and feature requests on GitHub. It will clear the DiagTrack log file found in 'C:\ProgramData\Microsoft\Diagnosis\ETLLogs\AutoLogger' after disabling all tracking, and it will also append tracking domains to the Windows HOSTS file. Usage Run DisableWinTracking.exe as an administrator in Windows 7/8.1 and it will show the current telemetry settings on the main screen: Either choose to change the default settings by ticking "Enable Default Telemetry Settings" and "Enable Automatic Collection of Diagnostic Data" or just press the 'Go Private!' button. Note: DisableWinTracking will try to check the registry to see if the profile of your personal devices (e.g. mouse, keyboard) is detected by the operating system (registry key HKLM\Software\Microsoft\Windows NT\CurrentVersion\Winlogon\ProfileList). DisableWinTracking allows you to disable tracking service using a checkbox list or choosing from the options shown on the main screen. These options are not applied to Windows 10 machines, and that is why you are prompted to update to the latest version of Windows if you plan to use the tool. You can download the ISO here (only Windows 7/8.1) or a 7-Zip archive. Because of the current lack of telemetry controls in Windows 10, DisableWinTracking will not offer to change your current settings, so just select the 'Go Private!' button. To make sure you have the option, you can change the registry to allow the operation. Microsoft also allows users to verify their Windows 10 version using their account information, but that option is available only when running the update tool. Optional features Although DisableWinTracking doesn't offer any additional features, you can check the 'Diagnosis' and 'Diagnosis and Recovery' application to look for some traces of data sent to Microsoft's servers. Diagnosis It is where Windows 10 stores the data regarding system health, crashes, and other information about your device.
